Where to Find the Calumet Index Collection of Newspapers

The Calumet Index, a local newspaper published in the Roseland neighborhood of Chicago, Illinois, began publication in the 1880s. However, many of the oldest issues have been lost over the years.

When publication ceased, the archive collection was donated to:

Chicago History Museum Research Center
1601 North Clark Street
Chicago, Illinois 60614

The fragile newspapers have been microfilmed. There are limited issues in the earliest years in the collection: 1909 and 1910. Then numerous gaps with the last issue in the collection being September 29, 1963.

The web address is: chicagohistory.org.

About this Index

“Greater Pullman’s War Years” was published in the Calumet Index as an eight-page section with an additional two pages in another section of the newspaper. It is a chronological listing of the names of servicemen and women from the Greater Roseland and Pullman neighborhoods of Chicago, Illinois, who served in World War II. The history begins in December 1941 and finishes with August 1945.

Each name has a few lines in the paper and generally includes the names of his/her parents and/or spouse. There are many photographs, too. The chronological order makes it difficult to find a specific name. This index will provide researchers an easy way to use this historical section of The Calumet Index.

O’Toole, Bartholomew Jr., 1st Lt. PWY 6-3

There are additional articles of servicemen/women on a few other pages in this issue of the newspaper as well as a column entitled: “ON THE FRONT With Our Boys”. These names are included in the index also but under C (for The Calumet Index) I or 2 (for the section of the newspaper.) The page and column number follow. A sample of an entry would be:

Vente, Adrian J., Cpl. CI 5-5

Since my copy of the Calumet Index is missing the section number at the top of the pages except for the first section, I’ve used C2 for any article not found in the first section (CI) of the newspaper. I apologize for any confusion but the articles are easy to find by glancing through the pages.
